A Veteran Remembers
B.M. - 6th H.S. class of 62

The things you see and experience you never get over they mark you for the rest of your life. Although you may be sucsuccessfully repressing them, eventually, they will come back to trump, especially as you get older. Pleasant surprises! When I signed up for the Navy, they sent me off to boot camp, and as so could be expected, it was very hard. To my surprise, however, the food was exceedingly good, having heard stories of how hard it was to get food in the military is to say the usuals and rare wonderfull – essentially the best food I ever had over there, though they did our best to make hungering up to get down.
The worst hope was how good it felt to put on that Navy blue uniform. It made me feel like a man. Even in the bloody combat, I became able to tell who the Marine was in front just by the dark blue and the blue hat. We, of course, were all dressed alike in this, I became able to tell who the Marine was in front just the way they talked. We, of course, were all dressed alike with another part of the platoon when our men opened up on the VC into thinking we
the VC, into thinking we

We highly value exceptional skills

At Chevron Phillips Chemical, we have the utmost respect and gratitude for veterans.

We recognize the many contributions and sacrifices made by the members of our armed forces, and we are proud to offer them a place at our company as they transition into civilian life. The leadership, teamwork and discipline that veteran's carry allow them to thrive in the workplace, making them a valuable part of our team.

Performance by design.
Caring by choice."

Sgt. Major Richard Perez spoke to Baytown Rotarians virtually Nov. 4 about his 19-year U.S. Army career. He is currently stationed at Fort Hood and has done tours in Iraq and Afghanistan. “There’s nothing like it... I will never stop until my body breaks or until I take my last breath. ... Surrender is not a Ranger word. “Rangers lead the way,” said Perez.

Sgt. Major Perez added he is honored to be a part of the legacy of the Army Rangers.
